Sports & FITNESS

PERFORMANCE

Don't sweat it! We've got the products to get you in shape.

READY,

SET,

SWEAT!

Staying fit and healthy is more than just a fad.

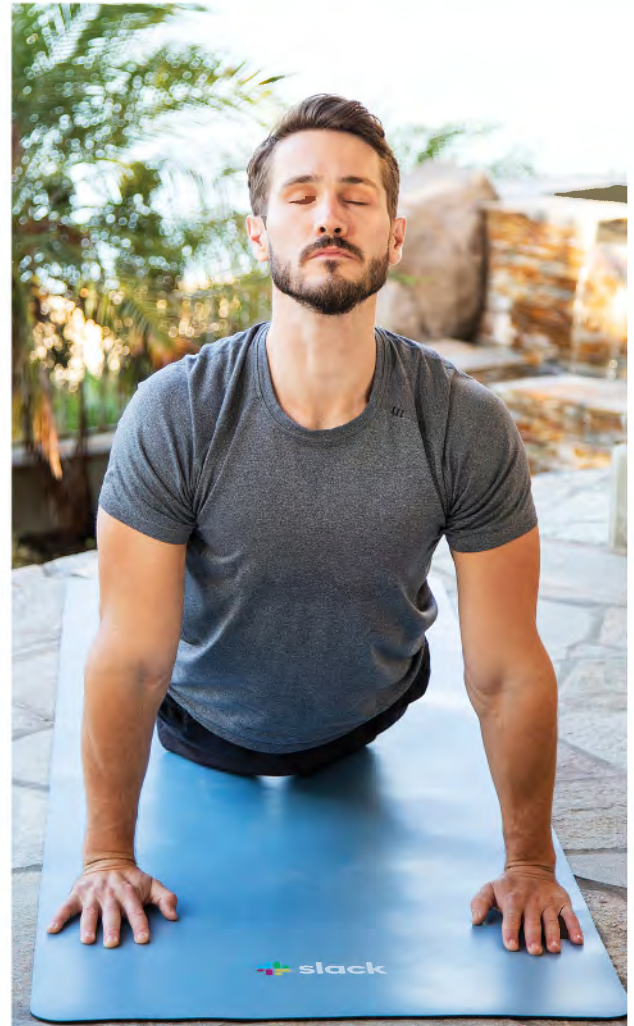

It's a lifestyle that gives great rewards to those that push themselves to reach their goals. The fitness world stretches far and wide to any activity that gets the heart rate moving. Luckily, there's an unlimited number of activities to choose from, each with a following large enough to populate a city.

This opens the door to a whole new world of branding possibilities, where practical accessories can make big gains in establishing personal relationships with brands, companies, and organizations.

As working out moved away from gyms and studios to living rooms and parks, the need to be connected to customers and employees proved more crucial than ever before. What was once an in-person activity can now be offered virtually to almost anywhere in the world. Local businesses now had opportunities to expand their services to a vast audience. This meant rewriting the playbook to reach new clients and build brand recognition in original, unique ways.

Yoga studios leaped into action and offered custom yoga mats in online stores to get a wider audience participating in virtual classes. Training apps threw in branded fitness towels as an incentive gift to users who subscribed to their workouts. Companies with remote workforces sent care packages stocked with fitness belts, yoga towels, and yoga mats, prompting company-wide workout challenges to stay fit and mentally sharp.

Out-of-the-box solutions can be the number one driving factor to increase a brand's ability to capture new leads and nurture existing ones. With the help of carefully crafted merchandise, businesses can now bridge the gap to consumers, further strengthening that crucial bond.

Whether you're leading a cycling class, practicing Pilates in the park, or pumping that iron virtually to anyone across the globe, having branded fitness gear is the perfect way to solidify your expertise and showcase to the world you've got what it takes to build your brand some extra muscle.

Robes & SPA WEAR

RELAXATION

Pamper, polish, and kick those feet up. Lounge those worries away, you deserve it.

the GIFT of COMFORT

HOW BATHROBES CHANGED THE BRANDING GAME

Every hotel has one, and yet it's the most mysterious object in every room. No, it's not the minibar, or the sprinkler you want to hang your clothes on. It's the elegant garment that's hanging in the closet, just waiting to be worn, calling out to each guest as an invitation to forget about time and all responsibilities.

That's right, it's the bathrobe.

The bathrobe is an incredibly useful accessory that gets overlooked by everyday shower users. But the true bathtub connoisseur will know the worth of this polished and famed textile. Its use is quite practical: you simply don one after taking a shower and you dry off without ever having to reach for a towel. And like clockwork after the initial use, you become slowly addicted to the wonders this velvety piece of terry fabric can do.

Robes are synonymous with pampering and self-care, so it's no wonder that the comeback of the robe fell within 2020. This year saw the rise of care packages sent out to remote employees and essential workers. Thoughtful gifts like home spa kits bundled with a bathrobe helped bring some much-needed kindness and relaxation for those working on the front lines.

And as more robes got into the hands of more users, the bathrobe began to pop up on social media feeds with hashtags of #staycation and #treatyourself. The idea of the home spa was flourishing and everyone from nurses, accountants, and bloggers picked up on this trend and brought the elusive garment back into the social spotlight.

Even the sports world got in on the fun, where organizations and teams showed off their merchandising mastery to a nation-wide audience.

The NFL Draft saw the 12th overall pick, Henry Ruggs III, sport a branded bathrobe in support of a donation by Old Spice to United Way.

Darren Rovell @darrenovell

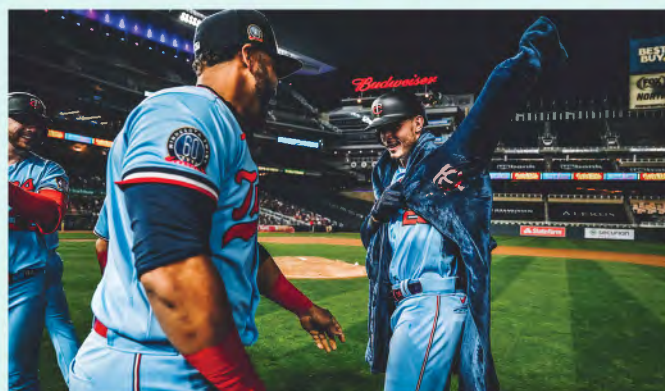

It's not to be comfortable. Raiders pick Henry Ruggs III got paid to wear that bathrobe. He's wearing an Old Spice robe to call attention to the company's $320,000 donation to United Way on behalf of rookies from all 32 NFL teams to kickstart their community efforts.

As the MLB season was wrapping up, the Minnesota Twins stole the show. Their team leader bought a personalized and numbered robe for all his fellow team members as recognition for qualifying for the playoffs. The robes even made their way into the dugout and fitted onto the player who hit a game winning homer.

With its reach now far and wide, the bathrobe looks like it's here to stay. In a year filled with fads that came and went, it's no surprise that the coziest trend caught on through all walks of life.

When you're thinking of a gift, look past the logo or personalized name. Focus on the recipient. "Who is this gift for and how will they get the most use out of it?" should be the questions driving you to your decision. Be the reason to give the gift of comfort to someone who deserves it. Because chances are, they'll be sitting on their couch, indulging in some much-needed R&R.

Blankets & THROWS

COMFORTABLE

Uniquely cozy with an attitude that impresses. Gather around the fireplace and explore gifts to be cherished.

TIPS & TRICKS for

1 THINK OUTSIDE THE BOX

With sublimation, you've got a grand imprint area to work with, meaning you should try to get creative with how you want your brand to be represented.

VISION IT ON YOUR COUCH

Imagine what the blanket will look like in your home. Do you like what you see? Design a blanket that reflects who you are.

5 BRANDING IS KEY

Make sure the design that will be printed compliments your brand.

6 LESS IS MORE

Make the logo part of your design and not the center of attention. Sometimes, subtle logos look better.

FULL COLOR FUN

3 UNLIMITED POSSIBILITIES

Go for nice patterns or background pictures. With an unlimited amount of colors to be printed, the sky's the limit as to what you can create.

4 PICTURE QUALITY IS EVERYTHING

Unfortunately, not every photo you find can be printed high quality. Try this - zoom in on a photo at 100% at the exact size of the item it's going on and if it gets blurry or pixelates, chance are it's not going to print well.

7 DON'T GO THE EASY ROUTE

Stay away from a step and repeat pattern (trust us). Chances are, there's so much more you can do!

8 SAY SOMETHING

Think of your blanket as a huge billboard for everyone to see. Use sublimation as an opportunity to communicate a message.
